

History is the study of the past and how people's lives have changed over time.

History

The history scheme of work aims to develop an understanding of the driving forces behind events in human history. Children are motivated to 'become young historians' by building the necessary skills to piece together the many pieces of our past. We want pupils to develop their critical thinking by becoming analytical in their approach to historical questioning and use a range of investigative methods to do this. The scheme of work provides the children with opportunities to learn about the past by studying a range of artefacts, eye witness statements and other resources to encourage curiosity about the way that their lives have been shaped by the history of our world.

Pupils are enabled to meet the end of key stage attainment targets through a well-structured and inspiring scheme of work and the aims of this also align with those in the National Curriculum.

The history curriculum is enriched through a variety of educational visits to historical sites steeped in rich resources from our national heritage. Children become immersed in the environment and learn from specialists from a particular period in time. On their return to school, they are inspired and enthused to learn more about their past.

Links to documents:

- History programmes of study: key stages 1 and 2
- Intent, Implementation & Impact Statement
- Key Skills & Knowledge – By Unit
- Progression of Knowledge and Skills
- Long Term Plan